Meralco supports 2014 Integrity Summit

Meralco is among the front-runners in this year's Integrity Summit to be held on September 19, 2014.

Integrity Summit is a campaign spearheaded by Integrity Initiative, Incorporated that aims to promote common ethical standards in society.

Meralco has been a signatory of Integrity Initiative since 2011 and as of September 2014, Meralco has been part of the 12 companies that are validated as "advanced" in terms of implementing ethical standards.

The company has been putting high importance on integrity, through its Corporate Governance Office, to ensure that fairness, accountability and transparency are upheld in order to protect the interest of all stakeholders. Through the Integrity Summit, Meralco would like to serve as a lead in promoting and practicing integrity.

"As a company, we have ensured that we expand our involvement in spreading the culture of integrity among corporates in the country through participating various initiatives and fora to enable other corporates as well to observe best practices," said Attorney William S. Pamintuan, First Vice President and Head of Legal.

Integrity Summit 2014 is just among the series of events lined up for this year. With the theme "Uniting for Integrity," the summit aims to increase awareness on the need for stronger ethical practices among all sectors and encourage participants to embrace a culture of integrity.

Representatives from the business groups, government agencies, the youth sector and the church are expected to attend the forum wherein the companies that have mainstreamed integrity practices and are now reaping the benefits of committing to high integrity standards will be recognized.
